

KARMA
AND THE NEW EARTH

The words karma and reincarnation are far more familiar to people in the Western world than in the past but remain abstract notions for the vast majority. In actuality they are spiritual laws enacted by divine law-givers. When humanity finally grasps the meaning of the biblical phrase, “As ye sow ye shall reap,” the human being will advance from adolescence to adulthood and our Earth will be born anew.

When there is no belief in a higher power, there is no cognizance of the fact that actions have consequences. The culprit whose crime remains undetected breathes a sigh of relief and tries to dismiss the episode from awareness. It will come as a shock to the majority of the race to discover that karmic debts eventually come due.

In one of the subtlest planes on Earth there is a barely perceptible layer of tissue called the Akasha. It is a vast web of the finest electric filaments that preserves everything that has occurred in the lifetimes of every human being and in the life of Earth. This is the complete and unabridged Book of Life—the container of the record reviewed by the soul at the end of an incarnation. This review allows the soul to extract added increments of light from each lifetime on the journey toward self-perfection. Acts of loving service as well as karmic debts are all retained in the causal body of the soul as seeds of the next life experience.

This is the unseen learning system that has been in operation since the birth of the human race. Its effects are seen in the disparities between individual lives. Spiritual progress depends upon the soul's ability to distill light from experience in form. The fact that multitudes of human beings have not advanced from the lower grades of Earth's 'schoolhouse' is evident in the barbarism of the present. This is also exposing the reality that human beings exist at different stages of consciousness. Some souls have evolved more than other for one of several reasons: because they've incarnated more frequently, because they learn more rapidly, or because they incarnated earlier—in other spheres than Earth— thus having had greater opportunities to accumulate the light of experience.

Suffering of one kind or another—physical, emotional, mental or spiritual—is the principle means by which light is accumulated. Behind the mask of a deformed body is a soul making karmic adjustments. Often those who take on debilitated forms make far greater progress in a lifetime than those whose forms are healthy and attractive, creating conditions less conducive to spiritual learning. The soul with a disabled body who grows from the anguishing episode will experience a reversal of fortune in a subsequent lifetime when it assumes a form of beauty. Thus the consciousness and form become resonant.

Life on Earth evolves according to karmic law under the supervision of Lords of Karma. This law is devoid of sentiment. Its goal is to balance the scales of justice on the soul's journey toward perfection. Nothing that happens in life is accidental or coincidental. The word 'coincidence' hides the work of invisible forces that shape events and destinies of souls. 'Synchronicity' is a closer approximation to the subtle workings of these forces. The most significant synchronicity of our time is the emergence of a body of souls with the quotient of light that opens the portal to the age of light. They will be joined by legions of souls presently out of incarnation who bear the same measure of light. Those souls who lack even a glint of light will remain at their present stage for the next evolutionary cycle.

“As you mete it out to others it is meted out to you” is another iteration of the law of karma. Understanding this law dissolves many mysteries of life in the form world. Mastering this law transforms the human being into a divine Being. Until that time, causes and effects shape life cycles in the goal of bringing the soul’s light into the foreground of consciousness. Freeing the self from karmic debt will be a common concern in the new era, as challenges and limitations will be seen in the light of the soul. In this light, forgiveness will be more common and blame less common. Engaging in blame will be seen as ignorance of the laws of cause and effect.

THE LEAP

The word 'ascent' is frequently used in reference to the direction of the wave of evolution. In actuality, the etheric physical plane lies behind the dense physical Earth in a realm of subtler, finer and higher vibrations—the spawning ground of the divine-human being. There is no organic flow from denser to subtler dimensions of form, hence the idea of a 'leap' emerged into human awareness some time ago among the pioneers in consciousness. The race is facing a leap across a chasm that requires a bridge. The substance of this bridge is woven from the light of the soul. To build it requires spiritual aspiration and will, as the crossing is not inevitable.

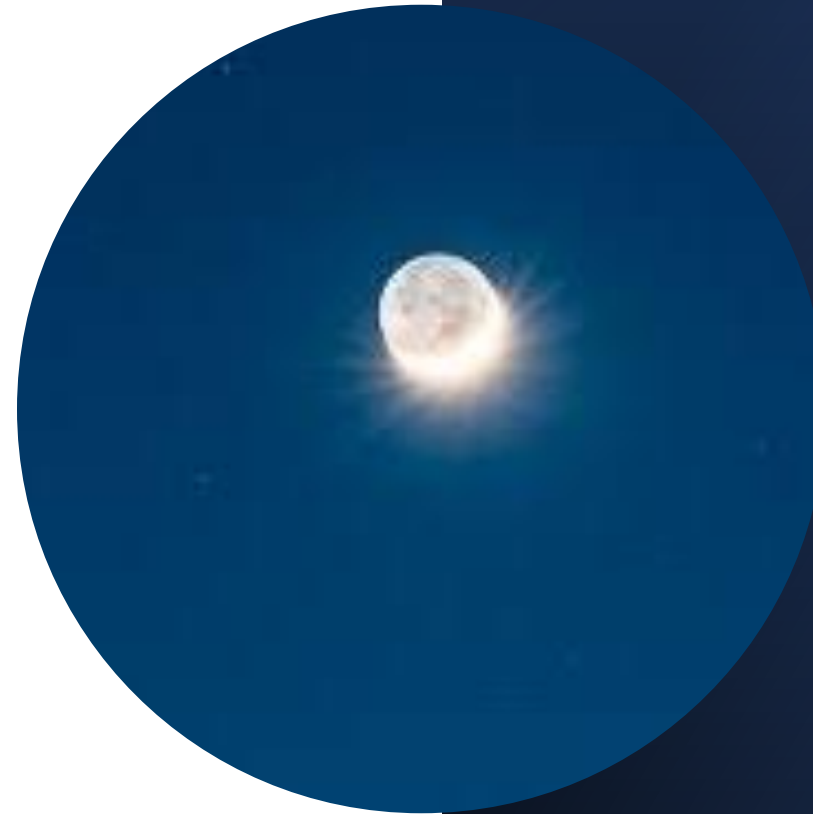

It is important to know that human will cannot impede the evolutionary Plan, though it can either delay or accelerate its unfoldment. Evolution will continue in a realm of higher frequencies for all life in all kingdoms of the natural world.

At present, the recalcitrant forces of selfishness are pushing vigorously against the tide of evolution while the progressive forces of giving and sharing—including all who resonate with the intrushing energies of wholeness and inclusiveness—are marshaling their forces to enter the cosmic flow.

Because We are prohibited by spiritual law from interfering with human free will, We would encourage you to reflect on the choices that lie before you at this juncture. A person without developed awareness or will could be swept by the still-powerful forces of the old order into the whirlpool of destruction that is swallowing up the old civilization. Where will is present, along with the capacity to discern the true from the false, abundant light will shine on the pathway into the new Earth—both yours and Ours.

It will dawn on human minds that the Universe is sustained by Creative Forces and Intelligences of many dimensions and manifestations. In its current phase of expansion, which impels the expansion of stars and galaxies, the Universe is reaching toward greater perfection for this manvantara.

Everything in manifestation has a purpose held in the mind of the Being Who ensouls it. When that purpose is fulfilled, the form contracts and dissolves for a period of pralaya—a state of inactivity that precedes a new cycle of active manifestation.

As our universe continues to expand, so does the consciousness of living beings—including the Sun and its planets. The reason for the break in continuity with past embodiments of Earth's life is that the consciousness of its kingdoms, notably the human kingdom, has expanded beyond the parameters of dense form. The evolution of the soul, of consciousness itself, is nourished by the frequencies of light and love, whose nature requires a finer body of the substance that will be found on the etheric plane.

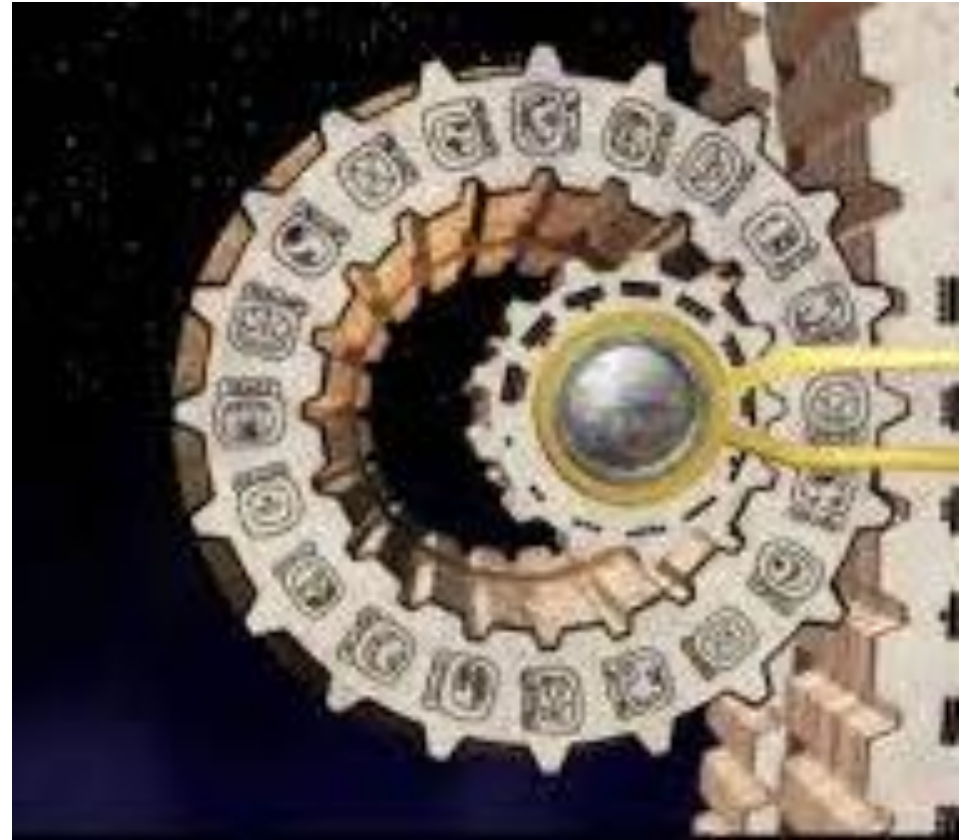

Many have asked themselves why the year 2012 was not mentioned in modern esoteric teachings. The reason is twofold. First, nothing in recorded history could have prepared the consciousness of humanity for the reality of a 'leap' to another dimension. It took the creative imagination of science fiction writers, artists and filmmakers to impress human minds with the possibility of other worlds, without inciting undue fear. Second, until recently the scaffolding of human awareness was not ready to accommodate the idea that a world civilization of such apparent power and permanence as the present one could someday end.

The Mayan calendar provided an opening to impress the minds of awakening humanity with the undeniable truth that an age is ending. The Ancient Mayas left their records in places where they could be conveniently rediscovered after the passage of millennia, to be reinterpreted at the moment when material forces were losing their grip on the world of form. The fragility of natural and human systems has created an atmosphere of uncertainty that has allowed for a shattering of the previous limits of human thought.

The fact that an old order was ending had to be realized before the rational mind could make sense of the notion of the end of time or the idea that the planet's lifewave is moving into a dimension beyond time and beyond death. For individuals and groups in whom the consciousness of a new age has been gestating, it is now possible to present such ideas without creating a wall of fear. The trajectory of world events has merged with a growing expectancy among a portion of humanity that a higher order of existence does in fact exist.

It was long predicted that a wave of light would engulf the planet in December 2012 with the alignment of Earth, the sun and the centre of the galaxy, allowing the Earth to enter a field of subtler substance that would radically alter the context of human life. This process began many decades ago on the inner planes, as streams of cosmic energy pouring into the Earth served to awaken human consciousness to the inner light of the Soul.

This light has, in turn, refined the subtle bodies of awakened human beings. A convergence is underway between 'the field' of modern physics, where subatomic particles momentarily become waves due to the presence of an observer, and the etheric plane where only waves of energy and light exist.

As the new Earth comes into manifestation, humanity will realize that the Sun is the impelling force in the realm of consciousness. The life-giving Sun will be to the evolution of consciousness what it was for the infinite forms of life on the surface of Earth. The 'heart of the sun' propels the soul onward in the journey of evolution that leads inevitably to the reunion with Divinity and the fulfillment of divine purpose. It is the evolutionary goal of the Solar Logos, the God of our solar system, to reveal the light of divinity within each of Its living forms.
