

CONSCIOUSNESS AND THE FABRIC OF ENERGY

The purpose of these writings is to swing the consciousness of advanced humanity further away from the sphere of matter and into the realm of spirit and to sensitize readers to the true dimensions of the shift.

We are speaking of a new incarnation of our planet at a higher turn of the evolutionary spiral. To grasp what is occurring it must be realized that energy is all there is, that light in all its frequencies is energy, and that spirit is purified energy. This is the idea that aligns present and future.

To take the measure of this moment, consider that our solar system is entering a great cycle of nearly 26,000 years under the influence of the constellation Aquarius and related cosmic forces.

The consciousness of Earth is entering into closer relationship with the life of our Galaxy. As the light pouring into our planet intensifies, higher frequencies impact the consciousness of all kingdoms in nature. This will impact the forms of life -- a phenomenon that has occurred several times in Earth's history.

In the next age all kingdoms of life will become etherealized, their forms translucent to the degree that energetic radiations will be visible to etheric sight.

The life of Earth is moving from a 3-dimensional world into a plane of etheric energy that some would call the 4th dimension. It is a realm where the light within each form will supersede the limits of form and enter the ocean of light that flows from the sacred source of life and contains all living beings.

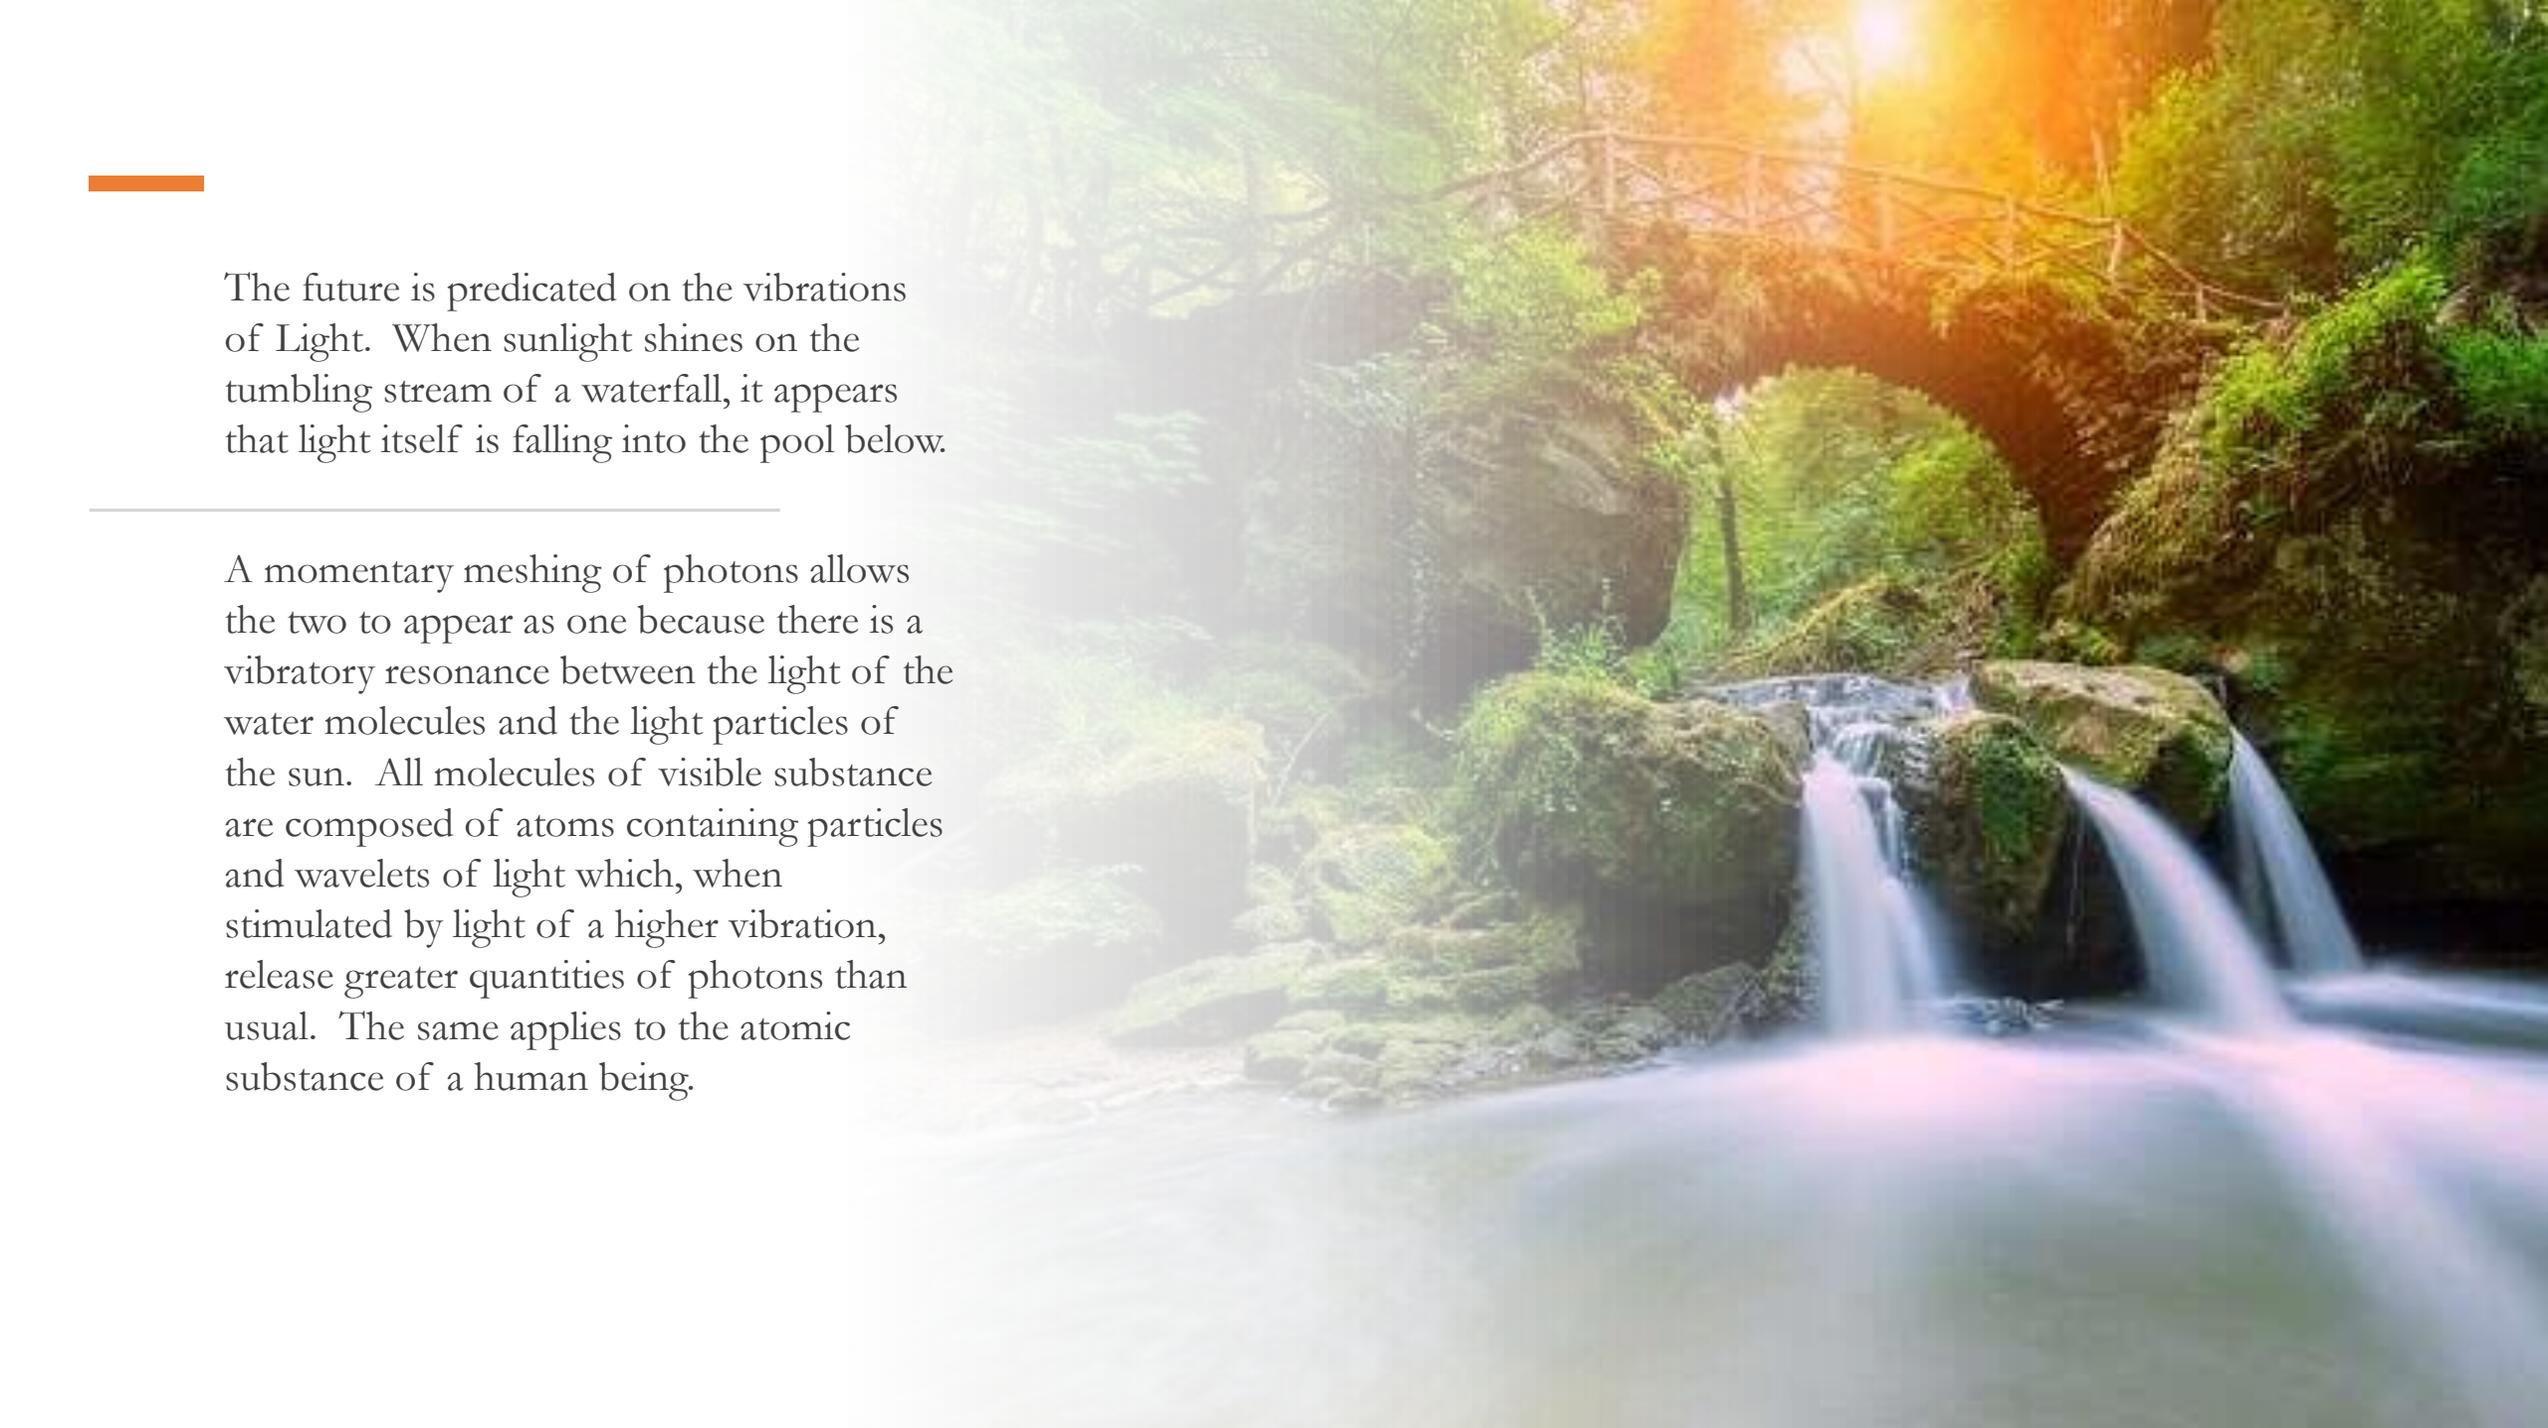

It will be realized that all that exists is created by thought vibrations traveling through the ethers -- both divine and human. When it is seen, through etheric sight, that everything exists in a web-like fabric of energy influenced by the projection of thought, a revolution in consciousness will occur.

This text is for those who sense that the path of evolution is diverging from the plane of densest matter. It will not be believed by many but will grant the peace of understanding to those who glimpse the reality shining through these words.

To gain access to the Reality on the other side of the veil is to realize that all is energy, that energy is Spirit, and that Spirit is life. The illusoriness of matter has blinded humanity to the true nature of the universe. As the arc of evolution ascends, the gaze of the Soul will shift to the reality behind the illusion.

A lush forest waterfall scene with sunlight filtering through the trees. The waterfall is cascading over mossy rocks into a pool below. The sun is shining brightly from the top right, creating a warm, golden glow and lens flare effects. The surrounding vegetation is dense and green, with ferns and moss visible on the rocks.

The future is predicated on the vibrations of Light. When sunlight shines on the tumbling stream of a waterfall, it appears that light itself is falling into the pool below.

A momentary meshing of photons allows the two to appear as one because there is a vibratory resonance between the light of the water molecules and the light particles of the sun. All molecules of visible substance are composed of atoms containing particles and wavelets of light which, when stimulated by light of a higher vibration, release greater quantities of photons than usual. The same applies to the atomic substance of a human being.

The seeker who sets out to discover the light of truth finds him/herself standing beneath a waterfall of light whose diamond sparks will rain down long before there is conscious realization of this fact. For that light to penetrate into awareness there has to be a resonance of frequencies that allows the atoms of substance in a person's brain to be impressed by the subtler light.

It is an alchemical process that begins with the aspiration to discover the light of Truth. When truth is assimilated in the light of the Soul, it has the power to transform the substance of the outer form.
